

Pursuing a Doctorate after a Master's or Pursuing a Second Doctorate

If you answer yes to the following three questions, then choosing to pursue a doctoral degree at Vitality University is the right choice for you:

1. You already hold a master's or doctoral license in acupuncture, including California and other states in the U.S., and you can apply for the doctoral degree at our university.
2. You want to master the clinical application of Chinese herbal medicine through study, especially its clinical application.
3. You hope to complete a substantial doctoral dissertation under the guidance of a mentor.

Vitality University's doctoral degree adopts a Hybrid teaching method. After one year of study and successful defense of your doctoral dissertation, you will receive a Doctor of Acupuncture with Chinese Herbal Medicine Specialization (DAcCHM).

The courses will be credited based on the original school's transcript and must meet the requirements of our school.
